Kings was a reality TV series produced by Authentic Entertainment for the Discovery Channel. The series premiered on October 26, 2010 and the Atlanta auction house Gallery 63 in Sandy Springs, Georgia, located on Roswell Road directly north of the Atlanta city limit. [2] The gallery has since moved into Atlanta City. The series capitalized on the success of History Channel's widely successful Pawn Stars. [3] Auction house staff often rely on experts to assess items whose historical background is provided to the viewer. Sellers provide comments about the goods at hand, both before and after the auction. At the second commercial break, a multiple choice question about the auction house or the items is presented. The show ran its last episode on May 16, 2013. Cast Gallery 63 Staff Paul Brown - Owner. Paul is a second generation auction house owner. He initially didn't feel like pursuing it as a career, but changed his mind after working on a car wash and earning a college degree in literature. Paul took a job at his father's Atlanta-based auction house in 1989. In 2005, he bought Gallery 63, just north of the Atlanta city limits. Cindy Shook - Manager. Cindy and Paul first worked together at his father's auction house in the early 1990s. She acts as office manager and inventory manager, tagging and cataloging items for each sale. Jon Hammond – Assistant Manager/Picker. Being a picker Jon not only helps in processing items in the Gallery, but will often go looking for items to sell on shipment. A college English major, he bested nearly a hundred other candidates for the position of assistant manager. Delfino Ramos – Repairman. Often items brought to the auction house need cleanup or repairs, both large and small, to increase their sales value. Delfino has been working since Paul Brown bought the company. Jason Brooks and Guerry Wise - Auctioneers. Returning cast Bob Brown - Paul's father and owner of the Red Baron antique shop/auction house (where Paul worked and learned the auction business in his youth). Bob was a semi-regular on the show in the first two seasons, and featured in the opening. Elijah Brown - Paul's son and Bob's grandson. Elijah works at Gallery 63 part-time as an assistant to Cindy and Jon, and attends high school. He is usually seen on background company items for the bidders to see at the auctions.

and also does some office work. He can be seen in a few episodes, learning to learn auction company of his father and grandfather. Steve and Ernie Garrett - A pair of antique pickers from Michigan, the Garrett brothers debuted on the show in Season 3. They tour the country looking for items to buy, and then sell them at auctions for profit. Dr. Lori – The valuer antiques appraiser (Dr. Lori Verderame, the former museum director and university professor) who evaluates many different types of objects. Dr Lori tells the Gallery 63 staff about the history of an item and what bidders have to pay for the item at auction. She assesses about 20,000 objects a year to the public nationwide. Dr. Lori debuted on the show in Season 3. Greg from Greg's Vintage Guitars Atlanta has been on the show several times giving advice and appraisal information to staff when they have received vintage and newer guitars and other stringed instruments to sell at auctions. Greg has been a vintage guitar dealer with an online presence for over 12 years.
